

I would hope that Satellite Radio can keep broadcasting everything. I travel a lot by car and appreciate the ability to listen to the programming I like without having to search for new stations when I enter new areas. If standard radio broadcasting could provide the same services as Satellite, then there would be no problem. Standard radio has just become an auditory billboard interspersed with some talk or music. It is no longer an enjoyable media.